

JAPANESE TROOPS CONTINUE ADVANCE

Many Chinese Towns Reported Bombed, Captured by Nipponese.

By the Associated Press.
Japanese troops are reported to be in control of the Lwan river boundary of a triangle the invaders want for a neutral zone, after a victorious march on several cities beyond the river in North China.

Yungking, 25 miles south of the Chinese wall, Sahochia, ten miles below the important Hsifeng pass, Tseinan, and Changli were said, in Japanese reports, to have fallen before the Japanese attacks by air artillery and infantry.

Another Japanese source said Japanese aviators bombed Miyun, only 35 miles north of the international area at Peiping, in which more than 2,500 Americans live.

Leaders of the Chinese northern armies discussed the increasingly difficult position at a conference in Peiping. Foreign residents of Peiping believe that city and Tientsin will be occupied eventually by the Japanese. Chiefs of foreign missions in north China said war conditions are a part of the day's work and that the missionaries "are remaining at their stations."

At Canton the political situation became more complicated with the arrival of Eugene Chen, one time foreign minister of the Nanking nationalist government, and the general belief that Marshal Chiang Kalshek, north China generalissimo, was negotiating with Japan. This, it was said, would lead to another rebellion of the Canton regime, often an opponent of the Nanking government.

Chinese military authorities said Japanese aviators had bombed two Chinese towns west of the Lwan river, and fears that the hostilities were approaching dangerously close to Tientsin were expressed.

The Chinese nationalist government cast its lot with Russia in asserting its rights to a part of the Chinese Eastern railway. In a memorandum to the soviet foreign affairs commissariat the Nanking government claimed the 1924 Peiping-Mukden treaties placed the line under the joint management of Russia and China and that the Japanese occupation of Manchuria, through which

Two Doctors Charged With Death of Woman

ROCKVILLE, Md., May 10.—(AP) Warrant charging Dr. H. R. Street of Washington, and Dr. Sherwood Ferris, of Chevy Chase, Md., with responsibility in the death of Mrs. Cora Britton, of May's Landing, N. J., were issued by the clerk of circuit court here today.

Mrs. Britton, wife of a New Jersey physician, died May 4 at the South Baltimore General hospital. She was admitted to the hospital after she had been treated for a supposed cancer of the breast.

Dr. Street and Dr. Ferris were involved in the treatments according to testimony here last night before a coroner's jury, which returned a verdict charging the doctors with "criminal conduct, gross malpractice and brutal treatment."

The C. E. R. runs, does not alter its status.

TWO CHINESE TOWNS ARE REPORTED BOMBED

TIENTSIN, China, May 10.—(AP)—A shiver of apprehension that the Sino-Japanese hostilities were approaching dangerously near Tientsin swept this area today when the Chinese military reported Japanese fliers had bombed two towns 80 miles north-east of Tientsin.

The report said Fengjun and Yutien were attacked by invading aviators who had flown beyond the Lwan river.

Youth's Death Solved, Boys Serving Terms

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 10.—(AP)—Mystery surrounding the hay-loft slaying of Everett Schooler, 14, has been solved and the boys responsible for his death are in a Nashville reformatory serving sentences for burglary, according to City Detective A. C. Howerton.

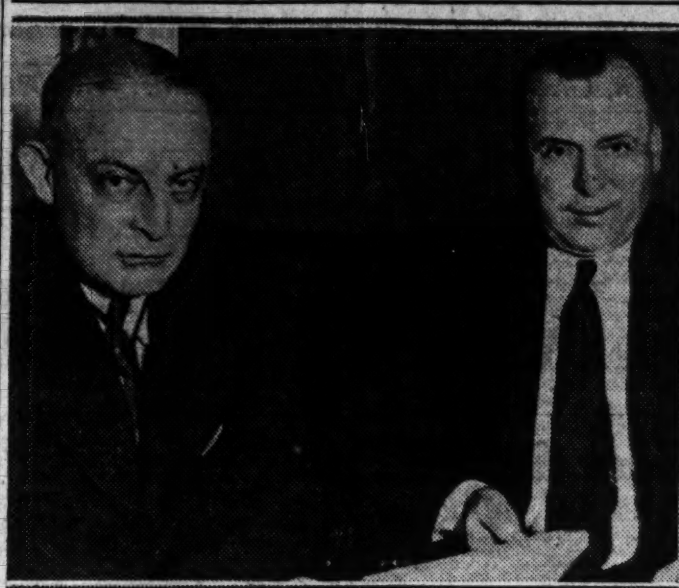

Howerton announced he had communicated with the father of the two boys and that one of them had written his father a letter, confessing the slaying of young Schooler and declaring the shooting was accidental.

The detective said he was convinced the boy was telling the truth.

Officials Visit Local Agency

John L. Buchanan, president of the General Electric Supply Corporation, and A. J. Millington Jr., his assistant, both of Bridgeport Conn., are shown at the local office of the company which they visited Wednesday on their trip through the southeast. Mr. Buchanan said that business conditions in this section are just as good as in any other part of the country. The textile industry in the past few weeks has been increasing and is offering some real encouragement. General Electric has just come out with new prices on its entire radio line and on the new automobile radio. The company, Mr. Buchanan said, can't meet the demand of incoming orders for refrigerators and radio sets. Staff photo by Kenneth Rogers.

Federal Regulation Of Insurance Urged

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP)—A constitutional amendment granting congress power to regulate insurance companies was proposed today by Senator Robinson, republican, Indiana.

He asserted facts have been brought to the attention of the senate "which indicate that the methods of several insurance companies of the country are under suspicion."

When it was known, Robinson said, that large insurance companies had increased salaries of executives up to $200,000 and at the same time "violated contractual obligations" by denying loans to policyholders and suspended payments under the cash surrender clause, "it is high time that the United States senate take note of what is going on."

The text of the proposed amendment reads: "The congress shall have power to regulate the business or commerce of insurance throughout the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof."

"Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

Senate Body Favors Federal Gasoline Tax

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP)—A favorable report on the new tax bill, continuing for a year the one-cent a gallon federal gasoline tax, was ordered Tuesday by the senate finance committee.

The committee transferred the present 3 per cent electricity tax from the consumer to the producer in the bill, reporting a two per cent levy in the producer of domestic and commercial energy and one per cent on industrial users, to become effective in September.

The measure also contains authority for the president to modify local drop letter postage rates from 3 cents to 2 cents.

Chairman Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, indicated it might be brought up for senate consideration tomorrow if opportunity presents.

MISSISSIPPI BANKER FREED OF 6 CHARGES

JACKSON, Miss., May 10.—(AP)—Federal Judge Edwin R. Holmes late today dismissed six of eight counts of an indictment charging J. Bowman Stirling, president of the closed First National Bank of Jackson and one-time Mississippi attorney-general, with violation of the national banking laws.

Only two of the original eight counts, both charging misapplication of funds, remain for deliberation of the jury.

TENNESSEE PRISONER KILLED IN MINE FIRE

PETROS, Tenn., May 10.—(AP)—An unexplained fire broke out in state prison mine No. 3 here yesterday and one convict was killed and another injured.

Deputy Warden Brice said the fire still was raging uncontrolled today. Clifford Hale, 21, serving a five-year term from Knoxville for robbery, was killed. Hiram Bolton, of Campbell county, was overcome by smoke from the burning coal and placed in the prison hospital.

Man Who 'Sees' Music Hears First Concert

FORT SMITH, Ark., May 10.—(AP)—Harry B. Shibley, 62-year-old deaf man who trained himself to "see" music played by watching the instruments, heard a concert for the first time in his life last night and said the instrument "sounded a lot like I thought they would."

Deaf since birth, Shibley is the husband of Mrs. Kate Strauss Shibley, Mt. Vista, Ark., musician and writer. For ten years he had attended every concert given by the Fort Smith symphony orchestra without hearing a note. A special amplification device now enables him to hear some sounds, especially musical notes, and the concert last night was his first major experiment in hearing.

The accompaniment that preceded a violin solo puzzled him. It was a piano. He was able, however, to identify sounds of other instruments. He still is unable to hear normally-pitched voices.

Names of Jig-Saw Winners Are Announced by Judges

By THE JIG-SAW EDITOR.

If my words had wings I could take flight into the realms of imagery and describe the beauty and uniqueness of the thousands of entries in the Jig-Saw contest. Uninspired words cannot picture the novelty and loveliness, the time and thought given to the arrangement and manner of treatment of the Jig-Saws entered in this contest.

And now I shall get to the point. After careful deliberation following more than two hours of inspection, the three judges, Clark Howell Jr., business manager of The Constitution; Julian Harris, advertising manager, and Joe Rosenfield Jr., promotion manager, made their choices.

Scores of the contestants were on hand, but the selection of the prize-winning entries proved such a problem it was announced that the names of the winners would not be given until they were announced in today's Constitution.

Orr Gets First.

The first prize was awarded to H. T. Orr, of Charlotte, N. C. Mr. Orr's puzzle was the most unique of all, and its novel arrangement and mechanical ingenuity, together with the correct and neat arrangement of the puzzle itself, stood out over all.

The first prize-winning entry was of copper, with a revolving center, through which the puzzle of the U. S. frigate Constitution could be seen, rocking serenely as the turning center disk with changing spoils told a story of the history and foundation of The Atlanta Constitution. As the middle wheel turned the sun would rise over the horizon and bright lights would flash on. Then, as it continued turning, the sun would set, and another emblem, representing the moon, would appear, and the Constitution would rock placidly through the night. As the moon sank into the distance a jagged bit of steel, which represented lightning, came into view, and the lights would flash on and off. Water would appear on the glass porthole, and the electric motor would continue through the same process.

The judges were unanimous in their opinion, and then came the task of selecting the other winners. Space will not permit a description of the hundreds of solutions entered. The puzzles will remain on display throughout the rest of the week in the basement of the Davison-Paxon store.

List of Winners.

The Constitution management wishes in announcing the names of the winners to thank each and every contestant and regrets that every one submitted cannot be awarded a prize. The judges were loud in their praise of the number of puzzles submitted and the splendid manner in which

BANK LOANS for the INDIVIDUAL

THERE are times in practically everyone's experience when borrowing becomes sensible and advisable and necessary. In cases of illness... to consolidate urgent debts... meet taxes... and the like.

To meet such contingencies, The First National Bank of Atlanta was the first bank in this section to establish a Personal Loan Department to accommodate small borrowers. Many thousands of people have used facilities of our Personal Loan Department. Loans are made to individuals of good character and regular employment, on the endorsement of two responsible people. Repayment is made in twelve equal monthly amounts. Interest at the rate of $6.00 per $100.00 borrowed is deducted at the time the loan is made.

Applications for Personal Loans may be discussed with D. H. Dickson, Manager of the Personal Loan Department, sixth floor of the Main Office at Five Points, or with any officer of main bank, or branches.

Not Liking Wife's Gown, Man Bites Her on Back

CHICAGO, May 10.—(AP)—An allegation that her husband, Arnold, showed his disapproval of a low-back ball gown by biting her in the back, was made by Mrs. Hazel Bissonette, 20, in a bill for divorce. Her husband, she said, lives in Brookhaven, Miss.

"And now," she quoted him as saying, "You won't go showing yourself, for you'll have to cover up those tooth marks."

one of its sponsors, objected to its inclusion of a portrait of Lenin. Rivera, a professed communist, declared he and seven assistants had been called down off the scaffolding by Rockefeller Center guards and informed they could not continue the 67-foot-long panel.

They had been working on the huge fresco for more than six weeks. The artist, dressed in paint-smeared overalls, said at the office of his lawyer, Philip Wittenberg, that the guards had handed him a letter, informing him of his dismissal, together with a check for the balance of his services. The check was for $14,000.

Wittenberg acted as spokesman for the agitated artist, who speaks little English.

He said Nelson Rockefeller, a grandson of John D. Rockefeller Sr., visited the RCA building lobby recently and objected to the Lenin portrait. Rivera told him he could not conscientiously change his design.

Tuesday morning Rivera received a note from Todd, Robertson & Todd, engineering agents in charge of the building—one of the gigantic Radio City project—informed him of Rockefeller's objection to the communist nature of the fresco.

The letter referred to Rivera's refusal to make changes suggested by Rockefeller. The preliminary sketches of the fresco indicate the nature of the mural as virtually completed now, the letter said, and the sponsors felt that Rivera has "taken advantage of the situation" in painting a subject of a "controversial nature."

Rivera replied, saying he would make no changes.

Tuesday afternoon the guards appeared, and after clearing away a large crowd of spectators watching the artist at work, handed Rivera the letter of dismissal.

15 Per Cent Rise
In Bread Price Seen

BOSTON, May 10.—(AP)—An increase of about 1 cent a loaf in the cost of bread to consumers would result under the terms of the farm bill, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace said today.

Here to speak at the annual dinner of the Boston Flour and Grain Exchange, Wallace said in an interview: "This represents an increase to the consumer of about 15 per cent, and an increase to the farmer who raises the wheat of about 70 per cent. Bakers have given us assurance that the tax will not be pyramided."

The price of a cotton shirt costing $1.50 would be increased to the consumer by about 5 cents, the secretary said. The difference in price of 2 1/2-pound cotton blankets, now costing 98 cents a pair retail, would be an increase of about 14 cents, he said.

PARAGUAY ORDERS
WAR UPON BOLIVIA

A nation-wide state of siege was established in Paraguay today for the duration of the war. The League of Nations was notified of the government's action.

Meanwhile, the combatants skirmished in minor engagements around Fort Gondra, where General Hans Kundt, former German officer and now the Bolivian military superior, awaited the dry season to retake Fort Ayala, the keystone of the Paraguayan defense which commands the main road to the Paraguay river.

The Bolivian strategy is to work toward the river from Fort Ayala, meanwhile crippling by air raids the Paraguayan supply bases along the river, including Puerto Casado, Finastero, and Concepcion, all of which were bombed recently.

With casualties aggregating more than 35,000 since July, the combatants now are mostly conserving their forces for a decisive action.

Bolivia awaits the drying of the marshy hinterland around Fort Ayala, while Paraguay is watching its neutral neighbors for a Bolivian embargo, which seems now to be the only Paraguayan hope for an early conclusion of the conflict.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, May 10.—(AP)—Chancellor Demetrio Canales, in an interview tonight with the Associated Press, said Bolivia received Paraguay's declaration of war without surprise.

Bolivia, he said, will continue defending its rights as it has done until now within the bounds of international law without ceasing to desire peace efforts such as those started in Washington.

The declaration, the chancellor added, would end the peace negotiations.

The Bolivian cabinet met this afternoon to consider its course of action.

PARAGUAY PLACES ISSUE
BEFORE WORLD STATESMEN

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP)—With a formal declaration against Bolivia, little Paraguay today placed the issue of legality of war squarely before the statesmen of the world.

Officials here inclined sharply to the view that conciliatory action is primarily the problem of the League of Nations, of which both nations are members.

Paraguay is a signatory of the Kellogg-Briand pact "outlawing" war, but Bolivia is not, although she declared her intention of adhering.

FIRST WAR DECLARATION
STIRS LEAGUE CIRCLES

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 10.—(AP)—Paraguay's declaration of war against Bolivia today caused a sensation here, because it was the first since the League of Nations came into existence.

The League, therefore, was confronted by an unprecedented situation and it was pointed out that, as both Paraguay and Bolivia are members of the society of the nations, they had undertaken to forewear war.

The question arose as to whether a special assembly should be convoked to examine the justification of imposing economic and financial penalties on the combatants.

The League tonight awaited official notification from Paraguay of the action and any explanation which may influence the character of the League's course.

Bolivian spokesmen said the League committee handling the dispute already had received assurances from several countries that they were ready to refuse to furnish arms to the belligerents.

The League council will automatically consider the dispute on May 22.

Home Discord, Textbook Learning Said Imperilling Minds of Children

PHILADELPHIA, May 10.—(AP)—Due to parental discord and over-emphasis of "text-book knowledge," Dr. Kenneth E. Appel, University of Pennsylvania psychiatrist, predicts that a million school children, now normal, will be at least mildly insane at some period of their lives.

Dr. Appel, who, with Dr. Earl D. Bond, has attracted wide notice for his work in combating the after effects of sleeping sickness in children, made his prediction last night at the annual meeting of the Philadelphia County Council of Home and School Associations.

"Much of this mental instability will be due in large part to parental discord, which is all too common in the American home," he declared.

"One-sided development of a child's character also is a chief factor—the laying of too much emphasis on text-book knowledge and not enough on the development of social adaptability."

Criticizing what he termed the popular idea that child prodigies are much to be admired, Dr. Appel asserted they should be pitied instead.

Discussing so-called problem children, he defended the policy of modern schools in emphasizing extra-curricular activities and in providing special education for pupils who require individual attention.

Dr. Appel and Dr. Bond were largely responsible for foundation of the Franklin school, a department of the Pennsylvania hospital where child victims of sleeping sickness, their personalities warped by the disease, are given special treatment, under the direction of psychiatrists, which is designed to prevent them becoming members of the criminal class.

Damp Summer Heat
Remains Here Today

The damp heat of summer weather will linger in Atlanta today, possibly to be cooled this afternoon by vagrant thunder showers, according to George W. Mindling, chief of the weather bureau. Until rains fall to cool the atmosphere, temperatures will range between 85 and 88 degrees, he said.

Sweeping over Atlanta early in the afternoon, a storm produced hail and a heavy downpour in the northern area of the city and only slight showers of rain in the downtown section. The weather bureau said storms of slight intensity were reported in other sections of the state. Temperatures in Atlanta ranged from 70 to 82 degrees.

NAZIS CONFISCATE SOCIALISTS' FUNDS

Tens of Millions in Marks and Property Involved by Hitler Order.

By ERICK KEYSER.
BERLIN, May 10.—(UP)—The Nazi government today ordered confiscation of the entire funds of the socialist party, the socialist press and all affiliated organizations.

The "non-partisan" reichsbanner, a body with left wing leanings, was included.

The confiscation was regarded as the most important move in the fascist revolution's second phase of nationalization of all branches of life in the reich. It was aimed at definitely smashing Marxism and destroying the last vestige of opposition to the Hitler regime, outside the thousands in detention camps.

Working classes were expected to welcome the action. The Nazis led up to it with a campaign to convince the workers the Nazis were saving their money from being squandered by socialist leaders and party officials.

The confiscated funds probably will total tens of millions of marks, officials estimated. The value of property involved would send this figure far higher.

Trade union delegates from all parts of Germany convened in the first united labor congress here today and formally entered Chancellor Hitler's "third reich."

The Nazi chieftain, whom the 600 representatives named their "schirmer," of patrons, promised them that the new Germany would be one in which employers' and employees' demands would be subordinated to the country's welfare.

Hitherto German labor has been organized in many groups with different economic programs. Now they will be subject to the will of Hitler, who officially named Robert Ley the leader of the newly created "workers' front," with Albert Forster and Walter Schumann in charge of the organizations of employees and labor.

Thousands Welcome King Cotton
And Queen to Memphis Carnival

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 10.—(AP)—The mid-south abandoned itself to the spirit of the carnival today, as cheering thousands again proclaimed their loyalty to King Cotton.

The muddy waters of the Mississippi river reflected jeweled crowns, royal trains and garments of courtly cotton as their majesties' barge brought King Cotton and his smiling queen to carnival city.

King Bob Snowden and Queen Valeria Caughlin led their courtiers into the city while the whistles of gayly decorated river craft joined in the salute.

Down here where the muddy Mississippi and its tributaries feed silt to the valley lands to make them productive of the world's finest cotton, the fleecy staple is always king, but this year's welcome had more than the usual warmth. The cotton market is on the rise and "colonnels" of the cotton land were giving voice to their appreciation.

The carnival was on! The merry making continued this afternoon and tonight with cotton fashion reviews, floral parades and dancing.

This, the third annual carnival tribute to King Cotton, will continue through Friday night.

May 9, 1933

A great thing has occurred amongst us. We have made a complete turnaround, and at last America's face is toward the future.

Three years—1929 to 1932—we Americans looked backward. All our old financial and political machinery was geared to pull us out of the depression by the same door through which we entered. We thought it simply a case of going back the way we came. It failed. We now realize that the way out is forward—through it.

Thanks for that belongs to President Roosevelt. Inauguration Day he turned the Ship of State around. Having observed the failure of sincere efforts to haul us back the way we came, he designed a new method—new political and financial machinery—to pull us out the way we are going—forward. He is clearing international obstacles out of the way; he does not stand in awe of tariffs. The people begin to feel that he does not take advice from the "interests"; that he has courage and loyalty to work for one supreme interest only—the welfare of the American people. That is a big achievement for two months in office.

And now we all look to what is coming; we grow less and less concerned with what is behind. We are looking for a hand-hold on the haul rope. Every man wants to do what he can, and all he can.

The best thing I can do for the Country is to create industry by building good motor cars. If I knew anything better to do, I would do it. Industry must be my contribution. Motor cars must face ahead to the future, like everything else. They are so much a part of the Nation's daily life that if they lag behind they hold the Country back.

Sales Tax Advocate Speaks at Institute of Public Affairs.

By GLENN RAMSEY.
ATHENS, Ga., May 10.—(AP)—Denouncing the state's ad valorem tax system as causing the foreclosure of mortgages on farms and homes, Speaker Ed Rivers, of the state house of representatives, continued his crusade for a retail sales tax in an address before the institute of public affairs at the University of Georgia.

Rivers charged that the present day leadership in Georgia was "without courage and intelligence" to remedy the situation.

In the second round-table discussion during the institute today, Ernest M. Davis, for six years a member of the state legislature and a leader in assembly affairs, said Georgia had reached the place where some units of the state government must be dispensed with or the people would be burdened further through some form of taxation.

Davis told the round table, attended by a number of students of the university, that they should not go into politics unless they were willing to sacrifice their own businesses. He was opposed in this view by Abit Nix, of Athens, a 1932 candidate for governor, who followed him on the program.

Nix said the young man's interest in politics was necessary for further development of the state. Representative J. W. Culpepper, scheduled to participate in the discussion, was unable to attend because of the illness of his wife. Speaker Rivers also was slated to join the round-table discussions but other engagements prevented.

"Why should we preserve a system of taxation," Speaker Rivers said in criticizing the ad valorem system, "which from a governmental standpoint had closed our schools, caged our insane in jail like wild animals, left our tubercular afflicted as health hazards to homes and communities, sent out tottering old soldiers to their pauper graves without payment of the pittance of their pensions, created a floating debt of more millions of dollars against our state treasury and bankrupted municipalities and counties?"

Rivers said the demagogue yells "economy" as the remedy for the situation and that because there was a need for some economy the demagogue seized upon this as an excuse "to shirk responsibility of blazing a new trail to relief."

The speaker, who unsuccessfully advocated a 5 per cent tax on retail sales at the last legislature, said that this was the only remedy and one that would give the taxpayer directly a lower ad valorem levy of 20 to 25 mills.

Dr. A. R. Hutton, of Northwestern University, who led the discussion, said Georgia needed a budgeting system in local government and a centralized co-operative purchasing system between municipalities, school districts and counties in order to effect economies in buying, which, he said, would save many millions each year to the taxpayers.

Representative Davis said under the present system state officials in the capitol were so afraid of their

Davis, Camilla, a member of the general assembly of Georgia. In the back row are Judge Blanton Fortson, Athens, and A. R. Hutton, of Northwestern University, who led a discussion on "Progress in Governmental Economy in the United States." positions that they dared not talk to persons of different political belief from those in power. Davis said such a situation was not good for the efficient operation of the state government but that it was due largely to the rule of self protection.

He told the gathering that if the legislature had known as much about the unstable economic affairs at the beginning of the legislature as at the end there would have been further slashing of the budget for the coming year.

Nix urged the organization of citizens in every town in the state to study government problems, he said such a body could render a real service to the people by gathering and disseminating information and setting up a plan of action to carry out economies in their local governments.

He said there should be economies in the school system but that a state should not go so far as to close the schools to meet the drop in revenue. Governor Talmadge will speak during the morning address period of the institute tomorrow, which will be followed by another round-table discussion.

DOCTORS HEAR PAPERS ON TECHNICAL TOPICS

MACON, Ga., May 10.—(AP)—An illustrated lecture of functions and diseases of the alimentary canal, with X-ray pictures, by Dr. Merrill C. Sosman, of Boston, Mass., was among the highlights of the scientific program today at the annual convention of the Medical Association of Georgia.

Dr. Sosman, considered one of the highest authorities on the subject, spoke on "Through the Alimentary Canal With the Fluoroscope." About 400 doctors attended the sessions today and more are expected by Thursday morning, when the scientific program will be resumed with discussions of arthritis and a number of other topics by various doctors.

Dr. Marvin M. Head, of Zebulon, state president, will make the presidential address at noon, and memorial exercises will be held for doctors who died during the last year.

Artificial pneumothorax is a tongue twister for the layman, but doctors have found it spells new hope and new life for victims of tuberculosis. It is a medical term to denote a treatment in which a lung badly affected by the disease can be collapsed and while "resting" from its usual job of breathing, it usually will restore itself to apparently sound condition.

Dr. F. C. Wheelock, medical director of the state sanitarium at Alto, read a paper on the subject in today's meeting of the association. The paper was prepared jointly by him and Dr. H. E. Crow and Dr. K. N. Joseph, of the sanitarium staff.

Dr. Ben Bashinski, of Macon, was chosen president-elect of the Georgia State Pediatrics Society at a dinner meeting in the Hotel Elberton tonight. Dr. Bashinski will assume office next year. To serve as president the present year the pediatrics elected Dr. Joseph Yampolsky, of Atlanta.

Other officers named were Dr. W. W. Anderson, Atlanta, vice president, and Dr. Roger Dickson, Atlanta, secretary and treasurer. Dr. Dickson was re-elected.

Members of the society decided to hold their annual scientific meeting in Atlanta in October, the date to be chosen later.

GA. MEDICAL ALUMNI PLEAD FOR COLLEGE

Meeting at Macon Adopts Resolution Asking Regents To Rescind Action.

MACON, Ga., May 10.—(AP)—The alumni of the medical department of the University of Georgia at the annual banquet held tonight at Hotel Lanier in connection with the annual convention of the Georgia Medical Association adopted resolutions urging the board of regents of the university system to rescind its action in abolishing the medical department.

A similar resolution adopted by the Emory University medical alumni received an ovation when read before the Georgia graduates.

Speakers urged that influence be used on their legislators, senators and others to obtain reversal of the regents' action.

The alumni announced itself ready to turn over to the regents immediately its $40,000 centennial memorial fund to erect a building to house the out-patient department of the university hospital provided the department is continued.

The resolution took the position that to abolish the medical college would be "unfair to the city of Augusta."

Dr. G. T. Bernard, of Augusta, was elected president of the alumni association, succeeding Dr. C. C. Coker, of Canton. Dr. C. L. Ridley, of Macon, a former classmate of Dr. Bernard's when they were students in the University of Georgia Medical College, was elected vice president, succeeding Dr. Moses Levy, of Augusta. Dr. G. Lombard Kelly, of Augusta, was re-elected secretary and treasurer. All elections were unanimous.

The alumni had entered the dining room and most of them were seated when Dr. E. E. Murphy, of Augusta, entered the room on crutches and was helped to his seat. The assembly broke into an ovation. Dr. Murphy had taught most of the men in the room. He has been clinical professor of internal medicine in the university hospital for about 35 years, and is just recovering from a long and dangerous illness necessitated by the amputation of a leg.

Dr. Coker, presiding, opened the banquet with a plea for unanimity, to which the association adhered in the actions tonight. Dr. Murphy made a talk deploring the withdrawal of appropriations for the medical department. There were many other speakers.

MOVE TO DISCONTINUE

MEDICAL COLLEGE HIT

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 10.—(AP)—Petitions and letters protesting the proposed closing of the University of Georgia Medical College, located in Augusta, were collected Wednesday for presentation to Governor Talmadge.

Supporters of the college plan to give him the documents upon his arrival here tomorrow to attend the annual convention of the Georgia County and Peace Officers' Association.

All civic clubs in the city and every member of the Richmond County Medical Society have signed the petitions. In addition, proponents say they have about 50 letters from hospitals in the state and elsewhere attesting to the efficient work of doctors graduated by the college.

Abandonment of the school, effective July 1, was ordered recently by the university board of regents. The petition ask that the order be revoked.

At Bicentennial Fete

ELBERTON, Ga., May 10.—Five thousand people witnessed the Elberton bicentennial open-air pageant tonight. The hillside along the town branch was covered. In the afternoon the parade of floats nearly two miles long was enjoyed by an immense crowd. Immediately after the Elberton's two military companies gave exhibition drills and fired salutes.

During the day the museum was opened and was crowded all the time. There were more than 3,000 articles displayed, many being 200 and more years old.

What threatened in the morning to be bad weather turned into a beautiful day. Many from a distance who had not been back to Elberton in years were visitors.

Man Who Averted Bombing To Be Charged With Plot

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 10.—(AP)—Thomas Pruitt, who averted a sputtering fuse from an eight-stick dynamite bomb in city hall yesterday, will be charged with plotting the bombing, according to an announcement made today by Chief of Detectives J. O. McCarthy.

A clue, police said they had used in their investigation, centered around a brown paper bag on which figures allegedly written by a chain grocery store manager, were found. The store manager told the officers Pruitt made a small purchase Saturday night.

Detective McCarthy said Pruitt at first admitted he had visited the store Saturday night, but that he denied it a few minutes later. He also said Pruitt denied having had the paper bag in his possession.

The exact nature of the charges have not been determined and depend upon the outcome of conferences with attorneys.

Meanwhile Pruitt is in custody at the city barracks, and officers said they had no announcement to make as to any motive for placing the bomb, which was found near the door of Mayor Thomas Gamble's office.

RECOGNITION WON

BY GEORGIA ARTIST

LA GRANGE, Ga., May 10.—Recognition has been won by a Georgia artist in New York.

Lamar Dodd, formerly of LaGrange, now of New York, is holding a one-art exhibition May 8-21 at the Ferris galleries, 65 East 57th street in New York, and invitations to the exhibition have been received by several hundred friends of the artist in Georgia.

The paintings of Mr. Dodd, done in water color, have aroused favorable comment, particularly those which are studies of southern scenes and characters. Several of his paintings are studies of the southern negro and his home. There is one painting which is called Greenville, Ga., which is a study of the small town in the western part of the state. Another is called Long Cane Farm and is a study of a farm near LaGrange. Still another is called Old Greene Homestead and is a picture of the home of the artist's mother, Mrs. F. J. Dodd, which is one of the purest types of early colonial architecture in LaGrange and one of the showplaces of the city. It was originally built by a son of Nathaniel Greene, of Revolutionary fame.

In addition to the honor of having a one-man exhibition, Mr. Dodd's work was further honored when one of his paintings was accepted by the Philadelphia water color show, being one of 15 accepted out of 450 submitted. The picture is now on exhibition at the Macbeth gallery in New York.

BEER PLEAS 'BOTHER,' TALMADGE DECLARES

Governor Refers to Brew Status in Speech at Cattle Field Day.

MONROE, Ga., May 10.—(AP)—Governor Talmadge today declared the farmer would be better off without government loans and said he wished people would "quit bothering" him about beer. The governor spoke to an audience of several hundred persons here for the Jersey Cattle Club field day. He said farming was an uncertain business and government loans only complicated matters for the grower.

Turning to beer, the governor said legalization of 3.2 per cent brew would not stop drunkenness and added he wished people would "quit bothering" him as there were more important things to consider.

Before the governor's address the visitors inspected the cattle and crops at the farm of T. R. Breedlove near here. Later they returned to the Georgia vocational trade school where they inspected the plant and cattle and heard addresses by the governor, Dr. S. V. Sanford, president of the University of Georgia, John Hardman, of Commerce; M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, and Paul W. Chapman, state director of vocational education.

A number of members of the state board of regents, including Hughes Spaulding, R. P. Burson and E. S. Ault, also were present.

$1,242,911 PROVIDED
BY R. F. C. IN GEORGIA

Work Supplied for 85,700
Heads of Families, De La Perriere Reports.

A total of $1,242,911.78 of funds supplied by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has been expended to date for relief purposes in Georgia. Herman De La Perriere, director of the Georgia Relief Association, revealed Wednesday in a report of his activities to Governor Talmadge. The report covered the activities of the association for the four months since Governor Talmadge assumed office on January 10.

Director De La Perriere estimated that the funds expended through various county relief organizations had provided work for 85,700 heads of families over the state, adding that the work had been given "to whom this emergency relief means the actual necessities of life for themselves and their families." He added that in nearly every instance the work was provided for persons who were the heads of families averaging five persons.

The report said that the organization working under Mr. De La Perriere is giving careful and detailed supervision to work being done with R. F. C. funds and that trained social welfare workers are aiding in the distribution of funds.

Mr. De La Perriere pointed out that at the time of his appointment by Governor Talmadge, in January, loans were being made to only eight counties in the state, while at present the organization has made loans to 108 counties and relief organizations have been set up in all of the state's 150 counties. In addition to those counties which already have received and are receiving funds there are 24 more counties which have their first applications for assistance pending before officials of the R. F. C. in Washington.

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 11, 1933.

AN IDEAL APPOINTMENT.

The selection by President Roosevelt of Eugene R. Black, governor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, as governor of the federal reserve board, is in every respect an ideal appointment.

His designation as the man to direct the vitally important activities of the reserve system will undoubtedly meet with universal approval.

Few posts in the federal administration at this time call for the exercise of as much capability and efficiency and the possession of as sound and far-reaching information on financial and economic conditions as the governorship of the reserve board.

To the reserve system will be entrusted the $3,000,000,000 inflation of the currency authorized by the congress as one of the major steps of President Roosevelt's national rehabilitation plan. The selection of Mr. Black for this vitally important post is a well-merited and outstanding recognition of his eminent fitness for the arduous and responsible task.

The elevation of this widely known Atlantian to a national position of such importance crowns a life of long and outstanding public and professional achievement and service. As an attorney, bank president and governor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank he has achieved wide recognition for ability and trustworthiness.

Despite his busy professional life he has rendered distinguished public service, being for one term solicitor of the city court of Atlanta, and having later been president of the Chamber of Commerce and head of the Atlanta Community Chest.

The appointment places the federal reserve system under able, sound and conservative direction at a time when the success of its activities is more vitally important to the well-being of the nation than ever before in its history.

OUR BIGGEST CROP LESSENS.

It would appear, according to the American Legislators' Association, that the depression has affected legislative output during the sessions held this year by the general assemblies of most of the states.

More than 62,000 bills have been introduced in the first four months of the year in the 45 state legislatures which have convened—a new high record for new bills—but the number of new laws enacted by the 26 legislatures which have completed their labors is to per cent less than the number passed by the same legislatures at their last sessions.

According to the report of the association, the average legislature has passed approximately 260 bills this year as compared with 291 in 1931 and 331 in 1929, the total of the new laws being in the neighborhood of 7,000 as against 8,200 for 1931. The exact number which will reach the statute books will probably be still less, dependent upon the vigor with which various governors wield the veto pen.

Even though the recent session of the Georgia legislature adjourned in confusion, leaving many bills without final action, it created nearly twice as many new laws as did the one of 1931, passing 391 bills this year as against 199 by the preceding general assembly. Such states as Tennessee, Oklahoma, North Carolina and Washington are getting along with an increase of considerably less than 200 new laws apiece.

Undoubtedly this decrease in legislative enactments is to be attributed to the awakened interest of the people in governmental matters. It is not as easy now, and not so politically safe, for a legislator to introduce and slip through with but little public attention, bills affecting but limited portions of our population, most of them merely adding to the burden of government and doing but little or no good.

What the nation needs is not more laws, but less of them, and this year's decrease in those enacted is an encouraging evidence that our legislators as a whole are realizing that quality is much more to be desired than quantity.

A NOBLE LAW.

The suggested enactment by council of a driver's license law for Atlanta would go far towards bringing about the return of conditions of safety to the streets of the city.

Such a law would not only tend to keep from behind the steering wheels of automobiles those not mentally or physically fit for driving but would add teeth to the enforcement of the traffic regulations.

Under present conditions, willful violators of the traffic laws can be arrested and hauled into court, but there is no way in which they can be prevented from stepping out of court and again resuming the driver's place in their automobiles. A driver's license law, with provisions for suspension or revocation, would, through its threat of the loss of the right to operate a car, be a club over the head of drivers willfully disregardful of the safety of the public.

The suggested license should carry only a nominal fee, being intended not as a revenue-producing measure but a step in the interest of the safety of those on the public thoroughfares of the city.

Statistics gathered by the Atlanta Traffic and Safety Council and the Junior Chamber of Commerce emphasize the vital necessity for steps to check speeding and reckless and drunken driving in Atlanta. On Tuesday up until only 4 p. m. there occurred ten accidents, in which five were injured, making the total of accidents 71 since the first of the month and 943 since January 1.

Chief Sturdivant is commendably following up his strict instructions to the members of the police force to intensify their efforts to enforce the traffic ordinances and the increase in arrests Tuesday shows what the police can do if they get busy.

They should be given the assistance of a license law in their fight to curb improper driving of every type. Such a law would result in fewer arrests, rather than more, because the fear of the loss of the right to drive will bring caution and respect of the law to reckless drivers as nothing else will.

A MERITED APPOINTMENT.

Announcement of the appointment of Captain C. H. Dolan as vice president of the Eastern Air Transport will be received with interest by the many citizens of Atlanta who know of the important part he has played in the development of air transportation in the south.

As director of operations for the past four years of the E. A. T. lines between New York and Atlanta, Captain Dolan has been largely instrumental in the setting up of a record of safety and reliability not excelled by any other air company in the country. His efficient service in developing commercial aviation in this section has contributed materially to the growth of Atlanta as the air transportation center of the south.

Few Atlantians have had as interesting and varied a career as his official. After service as an engineer in France during the early days of the World War, he joined the famous La Fayette Escadrille, where he was a flying mate of Kiffin Rockwell until the death of the latter, later transferring to the American air forces, in which he made an outstanding record.

Following the war, Captain Dolan went to China as aerial director for the forces of the republican army, and then came to America to enter the commercial air industry. It is a source of gratification that as vice president of the E. A. T. his headquarters will remain in Atlanta.

The action has been prompt, as Mr. Roosevelt promised. Now let's have the reaction.

A bootlegger had a list of dry agents marked "O. K." Probably stood for Onpossible to Korrupt.

Well, if the boys are content with a label, all that remains is to find a harmless slop that resembles gin.

Fortunately they won't need much of a bouncer to throw out anybody that gets high on 3.2 beer.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

France Losing Lead.

French intellectuals are alarmed over the decline of interest in French art and literature in foreign countries. Frenchmen go abroad, look into book shops and art galleries, and they see that the prominent place formerly held by products of the French mind is gradually being occupied by Germany and America and Russia. Take The Hague, a francophile city if ever there was one, or Bucharest, to take another capital at the other end of Europe. Ten years ago you saw nothing but French books in the shops of those cities. It was the same with Spain. All this is changing. It is rarely you see a French book now in those foreign cities. Naturally French writers are alarmed.

What is the cause, what is the reason that intellectuals abroad prefer the clumsy, heavy and awkward books of Germans and Americans, people who lack technique, who "esploit" who "know nothing of literary polish"? The answer is that in days of universal prosperity the French book was a well-kept, a well-light relief of roaring business. Now that we have wandered four long years into a dark epoch, which the critical birth-pangs are painful, we don't care a rap about the adventures of this or that actress, about the doings of this or that provincial manufacturer whose only aim in life is to gain more wealth. Love triangles and marital scandals are the only things that interest the Frenchman and the Frenchmen are left far behind.

If the French literatures have not disintegrated, they are hopelessly behind their time. They live in the past. Their books are oriented to the past. The past has ceased to hold the slightest inspiration to the young men and women of age. They want to know what the future will bring them. It is because Americans and Russians and Germans are deeply concerned with this, with the questions of real life, that they are read, and the Frenchmen are left far behind.

Einstein in France.

The French parliament has decided by unanimous vote—rare eventuality in the French parliament—to call Dr. Einstein to the chair of higher mathematics and physics at the Sorbonne. Curiously enough, the chamber needed only to put in a resolution, or rather, even an old law, which provided for the calling of Einstein to the chair of physics at the Sorbonne. The calling of Einstein to the chair of physics at the Sorbonne is the most striking rebuke that one nation could address to another. The German government has decided that it will not permit Einstein to come back to Prussia. It has no other reason for this. Dr. Einstein's race. Still Hitler dare not let his government be called a government of national regeneration and German "kultur." It is the "kultur" of little boys, yes, of very little boys.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

HIP HOOAY, WHEN DO WE SLEEP?

A lucky, or perhaps we should say right living individual, boards a train, sees to the stowing of his goods and chattels, makes a contribution toward the support of the company's employees, and at his customary time retires to his cubbyhole and enjoys his night's rest just as though he were slumbering in his own little beddy at home. But 99.44 per cent of us are not trained that way. We just serve time in ironic solitary confinement and are tossed all through the hideous night, while we plot unbecomingly crimes against almost anybody behind that curtain. It's all in the head. If you live right your dreams are right. Dreams are not something that gets in your hair, nor do you pick them up by getting out of bed too early. We're all born with "dreams." Here is at least one point of absolute equality. Makes not a particle of difference whether your grandfather or his was a horse thief or a financier, you start life with precisely the same standard ditty equipment that all other makes and models of your year have.

Dreams are microscopic contrivances of the central nerve and brain cell, which receive the impressions that come in through the arborizations at the terminal of the nerve. A wee retraction of the dendrites breaks the arborizations and in effect insulates the organism from all minor external stimuli or impressions. That means sleep.

Most people take the same unphysiological view of sleep that they take of other functions of the body, notably defecation. These morbid concepts are created and constantly kept in the mind, to the detriment of the organism whose business is the exploitation of popular credulity. Do not the majority of the population believe that it is necessary to "regulate" the bowels, to do something to make the bowels move sometimes if not all the time? Wince and so-called "educated" persons in general, in their ludicrous ignorance of physiology, fall easy prey to the suggestion that constant attention to the "regulation" of the bowels is a fundamental principle of health. Like one does not sleep well something should be done to make him sleep.

If the distinction I am trying to draw between letting one sleep and making him sleep, or between letting the bowel act and making it act, seems a quibble, it seems so because you fail to grasp the physiological fact involved. Perhaps a better way to explain than by reminding you that a person can be made to breathe deeply or more slowly by various physical, chemical or emotional means or by his own will and attention to his manner of breathing. Yet no one doubts that the breathing will be best regulated and most efficient if the person pays no attention to it and we do not attempt to influence it by physical, chemical or emotional means.

Well, believe it or not, the function of digestion is under the same automatic or automatic unconscious and involuntary control as is the function of breathing, and so is sleep. In any circumstances, avoiding things which prevent or disturb sleep far better than resorting to any means to make one sleep. We'll have another talk about this later.

Brother Must Fight Against Brother

When the Masters They Serve are at War

By Robert Quillen

All human experience has shown that a man possessed by ambition cannot be trusted. The explanation lies in the ancient truth that no man can serve two masters. Many people fail to understand that saying because they miss the significance of the word "master." They define the word by adjusting it to their own experience, and in their experience a master is no more than an employer.

But the word means much more than that. A master makes a slave. The master of a vessel at sea has absolute control of those on board—to punish them, to marry or bury them, and in extremity to kill them. A master dominates and controls. To say that a man is mastered by rage is to say that he has lost control of himself and wholly surrendered to a passion that is foreign to justice and reason.

A man can serve two employers. He can by treachery serve two opposing causes. But he can be mastered by only one thing at a time.

That is, of course, quite obvious. If a man is mastered by fear, he cannot be at the same time mastered by love or envy. Fear possesses his mind, to the exclusion of all else.

The truth that a man cannot serve both God and Mammon has been accepted by many without conviction. "But many good men," they say, "make a great deal of money." That is, a man can have his master.

The text refers to master. If a man accepts God as his master, he may continue to have many interests. But he will have no other master. Whether he plows corn or directs an industry, his one desire will be to serve God.

If Mammon is his master, he will be dominated by his lust for money. No other motive or concern can turn his from his master's service; and even his honesty, if he is honest, will be a policy adopted because it pays.

Ambition masters men. The history of our country is the story of men who sacrificed friends, honor and the goods of the nation to serve it. You cannot trust a man mastered by ambition, for he is a master's slave. The slave must deny his best friend when the master commands it.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 10.—The musical picture is back again. Soon a block of tuneless gelatin will flood the market and audiences will be whistling their way out of the theaters.

"Adorable," which brings to the American public that charming French actor, Henry Garat, whom they glimpsed in "Congress Dancers," has some times you'll remember and a production of guests to Hollywood can do in the way of fanciful extravagance when it makes up its mind. It has Wilhelm Dietrich, German director, who, if he gives us many of the tricks of David Lubich, Rene Clair and other geniuses of this type, also gives us an ice-skating scene which is original and fascinating.

Henry Garat is the outstanding moment of "Adorable." Here is a voice that was heard all too seldom. He sings well, both with a definite charm of tone and an intelligent use of that tone. His diction is splendid and he has been given a part which made him passively interested, he would click tremendously with the American public. As it is, his work in "Adorable" is a credit to the French and to the ingenuity of silent films who have not yet developed any tangible technique for the sort of thing—if indeed she is a thing—of which Henry Garat is a leading light who could travel in his artistic tempo.

It is a very pleasant musical evening. Gaylord and caddy and when it will not find any missing rhythm in their idiom. And money should be in a steady stream into the box office since the musical thing is on the up and up just now.

DAY BY DAY

In Georgia's History

One hundred and fifty-eight years ago today a party of six men led by Joseph Habersham broke open the door of the powder magazine in Savannah, Ga., and took out all the ammunition and sent it north.

On May 14, 1733, what ship in command of Captain Wyndham arrived in Georgia with the first immigrants, and what nationality were they and why were they sent here?

For the two best original 30-word answers to the foregoing question, Loew's Grand theater, co-operating with The Constitution, will award a special section of the general prize. Answers must be mailed to the Day by Day Editor, Constitution, and bear a postmark not later than midnight of May 18. The opponent of the day is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, starring Robert Montgomery, Walter Huston, Madge Evans and Jimmy Durante. The show will be shown at Loew's Grand theater tomorrow.

Today's winners: Miss Mabel Jenkins, Scottsdale, Ga.; Mary Byrd, 889 Tift avenue, S. W. Guest tickets are mailed to the winners each day.

TWO MORE CITIES JOIN BEER PARADE; BREW LOAD SEIZED

A recessed meeting of the council on Monday night of May 18. The object of the meeting was to prepare to organize against the legalizing act, it was reported.

With Savannah, Douglas, Alma, Vidalia and Thunderbolt authorizing the sale of beer and the beverage being easily obtainable in other cities, attention Wednesday was centered on the fact that the federal revenue department is to be taken against those who transport, sell or purchase the beverage.

Although neither Governor Eugene Talmadge, who has flatly refused to call a special session of the general assembly to consider beer legalization measures, nor Attorney-General M. J. Yeomans, who made a definite statement, both are known to feel that if any prosecution is directed it must be taken by the solicitors general of the circuits involved, that neither the governor nor the attorney general is clothed with police powers, except in case of emergency, and then the chief executive may act only through the national guard.

Chief Males Arrests.

The first arrest in Georgia was effected Wednesday in Cobb county by Deputy Sheriff Jake Miller, head of the county's road patrol. He took into custody two men who gave their names as Glenn Marler and Harry Gordon, of Cincinnati, and confiscated a truck and 125 cases of "Prima" beer, the labels on which said the beer was 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight and 4 per cent by volume.

Deputy Miller took the truck and his prisoners to the county jail, where Sheriff E. M. Legg communicated with Solicitor-General Gordon Vandiver, of the Blue Ridge circuit, at Canton. The solicitor-general said he would take a test case of the arrests and ordered the two men held in bonds of $100 each.

According to Sheriff Legg, the two prisoners said that they were transported from the north to Georgia by a shipper, however, said he was unable to find any bill of lading on the shipment and therefore did not know what the two men had been doing. The shipper, however, said he was unable to find any bill of lading on the shipment and therefore did not know what the two men had been doing.

Cobb county officials asserted that it would be up to Marler and Gordon to prove that they were headed for Florida with their cargo.

In Atlanta, Alderman James E. Bowden and Councilman C. W. Childs, and William T. Knight were busy rounding up support for the beer ordinance. They are to offer in council next Monday. All are sure they are certain that it would be approved and signed by the mayor, Councilman Parks Rank, of the 13th ward, announced that he would support an amendment to the ordinance, the amendment providing that a referendum be held on the matter.

Direct the issuance of $3,000,000 in new treasury notes or currency and provide for a federal fund to redeem the notes at the rate of 4 per cent annually for 25 years.

Reduce the gold content of the dollar by as much as 50 per cent to increase the money supply.

Accept $200,000,000 in silver at 50 cents an ounce on the war debts due and overdue this fiscal year, and issue silver certificates against the metal.

Remonetize silver at a fixed rate with gold and provide for free and unlimited coinage.

BACKS UP PLAN

Sloan Assures Roosevelt of Institute's Support of Program.

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP)—An announcement that one-third of the cotton textile industry already has lined up behind a maximum 40-hour work-week plan, designed to carry out some of President Roosevelt's ideas for stabilization of industry, was made today in a telegram to the president from the Cotton Textile Institute.

George A. Sloan, head of the institute and signer of the message, pointed out its organization represents "the largest manufacturing industry in the United States from the standpoint of the number of people employed."

He told the nation's chief executive an "overwhelming majority" of his directors have "heartily endorsed" a resolution passed Monday by the institute's executive committee, which outlined the plan.

The resolution had not been made public, pending the response of the directors. As outlined to President Roosevelt in the telegram, it read: "The institute, representing the cotton textile industry, in support of the executive committee of the Cotton Textile Institute heartily endorses President Roosevelt's plan looking to stabilization of employment, production and over-production and self-regulation of industry."

"Second, that the executive committee recommends to the institute's board of directors that a recommendation be made to all cotton mills in the United States that during the period the limit of hours of labor shall be not in excess of 40 hours per week and productive machinery as hereinafter defined, the institute will endeavor to secure two shifts of 40 hours each per week (productive machinery is defined as looms in cotton cloth mills and spinning spindles in cotton yarn mills)."

"Third, that it is further recommended that two-thirds of the industry may recommend a decrease or increase in the hours of labor and when it appears that the public needs are not being properly served."

"Fourth, that the committee recommends to the board of directors that the institute, in support of the mill executives representing two-thirds of the productive machinery as heretofore defined, shall be submitted to the president of the United States with a view to determining what further steps may be necessary to insure the adoption of and adherence to this program by every cotton mill in the United States."

BLACK NOMINATED TO RESERVE BOARD

he retired to attend to private business was not made known.

Strict silence was maintained today by Black, who was in Washington, D. C., on business. He would be "highly improper" for him to make a statement before he takes office and impossible afterward.

The nomination was described by Senator Louis, democrat, Louisiana, as "the answer to my prayer." He had waged a vigorous campaign to remove President A. L. Bledsoe, the chairman, from the board of the Federal Reserve Bank. "He's the best in the world," he added, referring to Black. "I know him intimately. He assisted me in a great deal of my business. Details To Be Worked Out Today For "Hospital Day" Drive Friday

With every Atlanta agency and hundreds of individuals co-operating, the leaders of 500 prominent Atlanta women, who will devote their efforts on Friday, Hospital Day, to raising a substantial fund to enable six Atlanta hospitals to carry on their charity work, will complete all arrangements today for stationing the workers at points of vantage in Atlanta. At these places they will voice their appeals in behalf of more than 50,000 Atlantans who annually are beneficiaries of charity hospitalization. Mrs. Malcolm Dewey, general chairman, said Wednesday night.

Official cognizance of the day was given Wednesday morning by Mayor James L. Key when he issued a proclamation declaring Hospital Day worthy of the thought of every citizen and urged "all citizens on this day to be as generous as circumstances will permit in the contributions to alleviate suffering among those who cannot help themselves."

Mayor Key said that Grady hospital, St. Joseph's infirmary, Georgia Baptist hospital, Henrietta Eggleston Memorial hospital, Wesley Memorial hospital and the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children have established charity wards for free medical treatment of those citizens who, due to financial adversity, are dependent upon the generosity of others, and he stated it was imperative that the more fortunate contribute liberally to such a worthy cause.

KOSNOFSKY SAYS HE SAW SHOOTING

Youth Changes Testimony, Claims Fatal Shot Came From Behind Him.

Substantial changes in testimony of Harry Kosnofsky, who is under a life sentence for alleged complicity in the Ben Lichtenstein murder September 21, 1931, Wednesday featured the retrial of J. D. Lee in Judge Virgil B. Moore's division of Fulton superior court. Kosnofsky swore that Lee was standing behind him when Lichtenstein slugged him (Kosnofsky) in the jaw before being shot.

In his previous testimony, Kosnofsky had denied entering the apartment house, insisting that he remained in the car. His new statement was that after Lichtenstein hit him and knocked out two teeth as they were standing in the apartment door, a "ball of fire" flashed across his vision, and Lichtenstein slumped down, shot. He repeated, several times, "I don't know who fired the shot."

George Cox, a co-defendant who has not been placed on trial, testified Wednesday for the first time, and said that he talked to Lee and Kosnofsky downtown shortly before the murder. Cox said that the two men told him they were going to see Lichtenstein.

Defense Attorney Arthur W. Powell sought to show that the state has offered help to Kosnofsky and Cox in obtaining lighter sentences, but the witnesses both denied this. Cox is serving a sentence for robbery; it was said. Witnesses Wednesday included Dr. S. J. Sinkov, who told of hearing the fatal shot and finding the body of Lichtenstein in the apartment; Jack Haire, who said that he was across the street and saw a man run from the Ponce de Leon apartment building after the shooting; Jack Wingate, a policeman, and R. M. (Bob) Holland, chief jailer, who confirmed a statement by Lee.

At his previous trial, Lee was given the death sentence, but the sentence later was reduced to a life term by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy on the ground of circumstantial evidence. Lee won a new trial by a decision of the state supreme court.

Road Chief Runs Afoul Of New Traffic Code

Captain J. W. Barnett, chairman of the state highway board, has had the hard luck to fall afoul of the enforcement of Atlanta's new traffic code, it was revealed Wednesday.

"What's your name?" asked the officer who booked the case.

"J. W. Barnett," the captain replied.

"What? With a name like that you should have better sense than to violate a traffic law," ejaculated the policeman.

"Why?" asked the captain.

"My name is Barnett, too," the officer said.

Asked if he is the "J. W. Barnett, engineer, Capitol square," who appears on the docket opposite $3 fine, Captain Barnett said, "Yes, and what's more, I paid the fine."

The entry charged him with illegal parking, leaving his car for an hour and 15 minutes with the motor running.

Requisitions Honored For 3 DeKalb Escapes

Three prisoners serving long-time sentences on the DeKalb county chain gang, two of whom escaped in 1931 and the other in 1930, will be returned by officers as a result of requisitions honored by Governor Horner, of Illinois.

The three men, arrested in Springfield, Ill., are Sylvester Knuckles, serving a 20-year term for criminal assault; Frank Richardson, serving 20 years for burglary; and Will Foster, serving two twenty-year sentences for manslaughter. All three made separate escapes, DeKalb prison officials said Wednesday.

Man, Wife Arrested In 5 Poison Deaths

NEWPORT, Ark., May 10.—(AP)—Charged with murdering with poison five members of a neighbor family last December, Ransom Crawford, 37, a farmer, and his wife, 47, were in custody of officers here tonight.

They were arrested on a first-degree murder indictment, charging them with poisoning Walter Ballew, a farmer, his wife and three sons, Robert, 22; Roosevelt, 16, and A. L. 9. The five died within 36 hours. A fourth child, a 16-year-old girl, was the only member of the family to survive.

The Ballew deaths first were believed to have resulted from violent attacks of influenza.

Officers said they learned the Crawfords had domestic difficulties over their association with the Ballews. They denied any connection with the deaths.

METHODIST MISSIONS WILL GET $1,525,073

Southern Church Appropriates Funds for All Phases of Work.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 10.—(AP)—Appropriations totaling $1,525,073.19 were voted by the board of missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, here today for all phases of the church mission enterprises.

The appropriations were based on 1932 receipts, which totaled $869,000 for general work on the board, including foreign and home mission departments, negro work, educational and promotional activities, administration costs and miscellaneous expenses. The appropriation for general work voted today was $725,778.55, representing a reduction of $200,000 from last year's appropriation.

In addition to this, the woman's department, which has its own income from women's missionary councils and other sources, was granted an appropriation of $799,294.34 to be expended in work similar to that carried on by the general program of the board.

Reduced income forced the board to effect sharp economies, which began with salary cuts and extended in some cases to recall of missionaries. In addition to the board of missions meeting, the denomination's book committee, which controls the Methodist publishing houses here and in Richmond, Va., Dallas, Texas, and San Francisco, met today and appropriated $50,000 for supernumerary ministers and their dependents.

The appropriation was voted in spite of the fact that the report of B. A. Whitmore and Dr. A. F. Smith, publishing agents, that the publishing houses showed a loss of $14,000 for last year's operations.

The fund for supernumerary ministers is built up from earnings of the publishing houses, and a reserve fund accumulated during past years made the appropriation of $50,000 for 1933-34 possible.

The board of missions concluded its annual two-day meeting with today's sessions.

MEXICAN ARTIST WILL 'WASH HANDS' OF RADIO CITY ART

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP)—Diego Rivera, forced by the Rockefeller family to abandon work on his proletarian panorama, issued this ultimatum tonight:

"Either the head of Lenin stays in or I wash my hands of the whole work."

Dropping a hastily prepared plan to test the power of the court to guarantee the completion and exhibition of the mural—the dominant art theme in the 70-story central building of Rockefeller Center—the Mexican artist said:

"I leave my cause in the hands of the workers of brain and hand in the United States and the world."

At Rockefeller Center no decision was reached during the day as to the disposition of the work. The fresco work is such that the entire front elevator facade must be torn down to dispose of the mural.

Sinus Headaches Quickly Stopped

Awful, torturing sinus pain is usually caused by poisonous catarrh mucus backing up into the sinuses. Penetro Nose and Throat Drops brings quick relief because it promotes free drainage of the entire nasal tract. It loosens the tight clinging mucus; and the ephedrine it contains shrinks swollen tissues and permits this poisonous mucus to drain out, keeping the sinuses clean and healthy. Penetro Nose and Throat Drops comes in two generous sizes: 25c and 50c, with dropper.

Knee Breaches Barred By Ambassador Bingham

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP)—Robert Worth Bingham, new ambassador to Great Britain, sailed today with the assertion that he positively would not wear knee breeches when presented at the court of St. James's.

This question is always asked new ambassadors to England and before Bingham sailed on the liner Washington the talk at last turned to the matter.

"I had been hopeful you wouldn't ask that question," the ambassador said, "but as you have asked it you can positively say that I will not."

Claude G. Bowers, democratic keynoter and new ambassador to Spain, also sailed on the Washington, accompanied by his wife. Ambassador Bingham was accompanied by Mrs. Bingham and their daughter, Henrietta.

DIXIE GROUP WILL AID TENN. DEVELOPMENT

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 10.—(AP)—After a delegate speaking in behalf of utility stockholders had been shouting down with a cry of "Put him out," representatives from seven southern states set up the Tennessee Valley Association here Tuesday to aid in the federal development program.

Former United States Senator W. E. Brock, of Chattanooga, was chosen by directors to head the organization until May 22. Directors will meet here then to choose a president to serve until October 9, date of the first meeting of the full membership, and select a city for the gathering.

Directors were elected from the seven participating states—Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

By-laws were adopted prohibiting holders of stock in public service corporations from holding any office in the organization.

Rising to oppose the latter proviso, Albert Littleton, mayor of Harrison, Tenn., said he felt it his duty to protest even though "I know I'm taking the floor on a chance of being howled down."

"My town," Littleton declared, "lies under the shadow of the Cove Creek dam site. My people have invested thousands of dollars in the stock of the Tennessee Electric Power Company. They are honest people, hard working people, and as good citizens as you'll find anywhere."

To deprive them of representation on the board of directors, Littleton asserted, would be unfair to them. "I haven't a dime invested in the stock of a power company or any of the other utilities," he continued, "but my people have, and it's honest money they've invested."

"Now are you going to say that because we've invested our dollars in the development of our territory, that we have surrendered our rights as American citizens?"

Littleton was interrupted by a demand that a previously adopted two-minute limit on speech-making be enforced. When he attempted to resume, his remarks were greeted with a cry of "Put him out, put him out," and he abandoned the effort.

While only one or two individuals shouted "Put him out," the demand for enforcement of the two-minute limit was joined in by many.

Under the by-laws, a council of 100 members was created to advise with the directors and others on "technical and other subjects," and the board was empowered to create "technical sections" to gather data and distribute information on various phases of the development program.

Alabama and Tennessee were given seven directors apiece and each of the other states was allotted two.

The Georgia directors are J. H. Daniel, of Rome, and Eugene R. Black, governor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve district, of Atlanta.

Navy Smith Is Killed When Shell Explodes

DAHLGREN, Va., May 10.—Thomas Daniels, 26, metal smith at the naval proving grounds here, was instantly killed and Aviation Pilot T. L. Williams, 32, was painfully injured late yesterday in an unexplained explosion in the seaplane hangar.

Dahlgren officials declined to comment on the explosion until the official report has been filed, but from other sources it was learned that a high power shell exploded.

The men were engaged in welding when the blast occurred.

Daniels was a native of Texas, and had been stationed here for seven months. Williams, whose home is in Mississippi, was rushed to the Washington naval hospital by an ambulance airplane. Both men are married.

7-Inch Snow Blankets
California Mountains

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—(AP)—Snow which at one point measured seven inches fell on southern California's high mountains today as heavy showers descended upon valley and plains regions.

Starting about midnight, snow created a typical midwinter scene at Lake Arrowhead, mile-high resort near San Bernardino.

Unsolved Mystery of '31 Duplicated As Two Are Found Slain in Office

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP)—As mysteriously as his former secretary was murdered in the same office two years ago, Edward A. Ridley, 38-year-old department store founder, and his secretary, Lee Weinstein, 45, were slain today.

Their battered bodies—both of their skulls had been crushed in—were found in the modest little sub-bellar office Ridley used in an East Side garage he owned.

The mystery which shrouded the motive and the identity of the killers in today's double slaying, was as great as that which defied solution when Herman Hoench, 60, was found dead in that same dingy office by Ridley back in 1931.

In neither case was there any indication of robbery.

A number of empty cartridges were found beside the scarcely recognizable bodies of Ridley and Weinstein.

The body of the man who once owned one of New York's largest department stores—on Grand street in the East Side—and whom neighbors long have termed a millionaire, was discovered just outside the office door.

Inside the office—with its single electric light and its single desk and chair—was the body of Weinstein.

No one in the neighborhood remembered having heard any shots.

About 1:30 p. m. today, two men, one elderly and the other about 25 years old, walked into a brass shop near the garage and asked where they could find Ridley. The owner directed them to a door in a wooden fence next to the garage. The door leads to a ramp to the sub-bellar.

Down seven or eight steps is the partitioned space, the owner of the building used as his office.

About 2:30, a man telephoned to the garage and said he wanted to talk to Ridley. An elevator operator went down to the office, which has no telephone extension, and found the bodies.

Later it was discovered the person who had telephoned had hung up the receiver.

First Lady Will Write Monthly for Magazine

NEW YORK, May 10.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the president, will conduct a page of her own, "Mrs. Roosevelt's Page," in the Woman's Home Companion starting in August. She has signed a year's contract, and during this time she will write for no other magazine. Until recently Mrs. Roosevelt was editor of "Babies—Just Babies," a Bernai. McFadden publication which will be discontinued with the June issue.

Florida Legion Head Urges Reversal Of National Stand on Vets' Bonus

HAVANA, May 10.—(AP)—Commander Gordon B. Knowles today urged the Florida department of the American Legion to instruct its delegates to the national convention at Chicago to introduce and vigorously support a resolution rescinding the national body's bonus stand.

Prolonged applause pledged him the co-operation of delegates to the three-day convention of the state organization here, which opened this morning. The initial business session was held in the banquet room of the National hotel.

"Looking back on the bonus demand," Commander Knowles said in the course of his annual report, "it seems fairly clear to any honest observer that:

"(1) The American public did not want us to have a two billion-dollar bonus in 1932 and will not consent to our having it in 1933.

"(2) The bonus demand could not be justified before public opinion and has done the veteran and the Legion incalculable harm before the public and our political leaders.

"(3) The leaders of the Legion foresaw all this and warned the veterans, but our members in other states ran amuck and followed outside leaders and principles foreign to those of the Legion, and

"(4) The present unhappy relation of the veteran to public opinion is a direct result of all these bonus blunders.

Declaring the Washington bonus march of 1932 was predestined to end "in disaster and bitterness and death," Mr. Knowles said "the activity did the veteran more harm, if possible, than the Portland resolution on the bonus."

Young Matrons Give Scholarships To the Tallulah Falls School

Mrs. William Akers, president of the Young Matrons' Circle for Tallulah Falls school, who presided over the spring meeting of the circle held yesterday at Pinebloom, the home of Mrs. Preston Arkwright and Mrs. Glenville Giddings in Druid Hills. Following the meeting the members were entertained at tea in the gardens surrounding Pinebloom.

Featured by the presentation of a perpetual scholarship and three annual scholarships and the announcement of a gift of $1,500 for the erection of a boys' workshop at the school, the spring meeting of the Young Matrons' Circle of Tallulah Falls school was held Wednesday at Pinebloom, home of Mr. and Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright, with Mrs. Arkwright, honorary president of the circle, and her daughter, Mrs. Glenville Giddings, hospitality chairman, as hostesses to the membership. Sharing interest with these important announcements was the making of final plans for the fifth annual spring horse show which the circle sponsors May 18-19-20 at Piedmont park for the Atlanta Horse Show Association. A garden tea given for officers, directors and new members followed the meeting.

Mrs. H. W. Beers, scholarship chairman, presented the Nancy Matthews Akers Perpetual Scholarship of $2,000 as a memorial tribute to her maternal grandmother, whose name she bears. These perpetuals may be paid at the rate of $150 a year and maintain a child for all time at the school. Mrs. Beers stressed the need of renewed effort and generosity as Tallulah has more children than ever before depending upon the school. The call for scholarship gifts brought an annual scholarship from Mrs. Arthur S. Bird, co-chairman of the scholarship committee, the gift being made in behalf of her young daughter, Betty Ann and Louise Byrd. Mrs. Charles Giddings presented an annual scholarship in memory of her father, the late Mrs. Spurgeon King, to be called the Eleanor Taylor King scholarship.

Announcement was made of the gift of $1,500 from Dr. Albert R. Sheldon, of Highland Park III, and a group of friends, for the erection of a boys' workshop, which is much needed in the work of the school. This building will be erected during the summer and will be called the Albert Sheldon workshop. Another gift of interest was announced from Dr. Glenville Giddings, who gave to the circle a splendid new moving picture machine.

Mrs. Akers Presides.

Mrs. William Akers, president of the Young Matrons' Circle, presided over the spring meeting of the circle held yesterday at Pinebloom, the home of Mrs. Preston Arkwright and Mrs. Glenville Giddings in Druid Hills. Following the meeting the members were entertained at tea in the gardens surrounding Pinebloom.

Mrs. Akers introduced officers of the circle and the chairmen. Mrs. John K. Ottley, president of the board of trustees of the school; Mrs. Arkwright, honorary president of the circle; Mrs. Giddings, chairman of hospitality; extended greetings, and Mrs. Daniel M. Byrd, new chairman of books for the circle, was greeted. Mrs. Charles J. Haden, chairman of Students' Aid, Foundation and trustee of Tallulah Falls school, was presented as a special guest. She will act as a trustee sponsor for the senior class of 1933 and present high school diplomas to the 12 girls and 5 boys in the graduating class on May 26. Charles J. Haden will deliver the formal address of senior high school with Georgia history in its application to the present with reference to Georgia's bicentennial, which the 1933 senior class will represent.

Horse Show Plans.

Mrs. W. Eugene Harrington, chairman of ways and means for the circle and general chairman of the horse show, told of interesting features arranged for this most important event of the circle's entire year. She introduced her chairmen, including Mrs. Walter Candler, who is acting as co-chairman with Mrs. Harrington.

In the absence of Mrs. Howard Candler Jr., chairman of membership, new members were introduced by Mrs. Robert Peckham IV, a member of the committee. They were welcomed and were special guests of honor at the garden tea, also given for the officers, directors and committee chairmen, when the guests assembled in the gardens of Pinebloom, where they were received by Mrs. Arkwright, Mrs. Giddings, Mrs. Lon Grove, chairman of entertainment.

Out-of-town guests were Miss Louise Dooly, Mrs. Guyton Abney, Mrs. Dice Anderson and Mrs. Carl Sullivan, of Macon; Mrs. Mark Temple and Mrs. Floyd Northcutt, of Marietta; Miss Margaret Edmondson, of Savannah; a member of the circle, but a resident of another Georgia city.

Mrs. Evans Wins Sweepstakes Award At Rose Club Show

Mrs. Charles Evans was awarded the sweepstakes prize at the flower show given by members of the Rose Garden Club at the garage at the home of Mrs. Willard McBurney, on East Brookhaven drive, Tuesday. Mrs. Evans received as a prize an English wicker set basket for her arrangement of large yellow roses with lemon day lilies and Florida jasmione in a yellow pottery bowl. Pink Mary Wain roses growing on a trellis over the doors of the garage framed the entry to the exhibit, which were arranged against an effective background of green and judged by ballot.

An outstanding exhibit was the miniature herb garden built by Mrs. Willard McBurney, receiving a blue ribbon in the class for practical demonstration of a phase of horticulture. A little English thatched roof cottage nestled among shrubs and evergreens with a flagstone terrace adjoining the herb garden, worked out to scale. Twenty-four kinds of herbs were planted and numbered, referring to a miniature book which gave the complete name, common and botanical, and the use of each herb.

The red ribbon in this class went to Mrs. Fleming Law for her attractive exhibit which explained in full detail how to raise perennials from seed. Mrs. Cosby Swanson placed third with her demonstration on how to root box wood.

Other awards were: Arrangements over 18 inches: Mrs. Willard McBurney, for arrangement of tallismans, roses, columbines, and pansies in a sandwich glass bowl; Mrs. Cosby Swanson for lemon day lilies and elder daisies in a Della Robbia pottery bowl; Mrs. Bartow Morgan for red and white peonies in a black vase; arrangements under 18 inches: Mrs. Fleming Law, henners, columbine and blue Siberian iris in a milk glass bowl; Mrs. Charles Evans, mixed garden flowers in a low crystal bowl, and Mrs. George W. Rowbotham, lemon day lilies and day lilies in a pottery vase; miniatures: Mrs. Charles M. Marshall, sweetheart roses and violas in a miniature china basket; Mrs. Willard McBurney, Cecile Brunner roses, forget-me-nots, aralias and Florida jasmione in a small blue sandwich glass mustard jar; and Mrs. Chaucer Middlebrooks, blue iris in a tiny pitcher; white flowers in white containers: Mrs. Chaucer Middlebrooks, white Siberian iris in a low white pottery bowl; Mrs. H. W. Beers, white peonies in a dull pottery urn, and Mrs. James G. Ison, Duetzia in a wedgewood bowl; yellow flowers in yellow containers: Mrs. Charles Evans, yellow roses, lemon day lilies and Florida jasmione in a yellow pottery bowl which also won the sweepstakes; Mrs. Harrison Hines, three perfect yellow roses in a white glass vase, and Mrs. Norwood Griffin, blossoms from the tulip poplar tree arranged in a low bowl; blue flowers in blue containers: Mrs. Chaucer Middlebrooks, cornflowers in blue vase; Mrs. Charles Evans, cornflowers and Chinese forget-me-nots in blue vase; Mrs. Chaucer Middlebrooks, Leontideas and Monarda, rich blue columbines and trailing wisteria; pink flowers in pink containers: Mrs. Harrison Hines, Shirley poppies, anemones and maidenhair fern; breakfast table arrangements: Mrs. Charles M. Marshall, blue, white and yellow striped cloth with red roses, blue cornflowers, white pinks and ranunculus in a small blue bowl; Mrs. Harrison Hines, Mary Wallace rosebuds in a small white fluted vase placed on a great damask mat; and Mrs. H. W. Beers, roses and cornflowers; joint exhibits by two members: Mrs. Walter Wilson and Mrs. Charles Marshall with rosebuds in a crystal bowl, and Mrs. Frank Berry and Mrs. H. W. Beers, roses in a basket; miscellaneous: Mrs. Charles M. Marshall, one rose-pink water lily in a flat pottery bowl with green frog looking into the water; Mrs. Fred Colegate two pots of cactus, and Mrs. Roy Morrison, twin vases of mixed garden flowers.

The guests strolled through the garden, which was lovely with its beds of exquisite roses and borders of irises, lilies, columbines and perennials most of which Mrs. McBurney has raised from seed. The handsome scrapbook of the club, which recently received the first award and silver medal at the convention of the Garden Clubs of Georgia, in Columbus, was exhibited.

The committee in charge of the flower show included Mesdames Harrison Hines, president of the club; Charles M. Marshall, chairman; Walter T. Wilson, Fleming Law, Frank M. Stevens and Willard McBurney. Mrs. Cosby Swanson and Mrs. Elwyn Tomlinson were in charge of labelling of the entries.

The HONEYMOON MURDER

BY CAROLYN WELLS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The third day after Perilla Fairfax and the wealthy Corey Malden are married at the Long Island summer home of John Lovell, her stepfather. Corey dies suddenly in their hotel at Washington where they stop on route by motor to his mother's home at Richmond. Madame Malden, as the old lady wishes to be called, gets Perilla with, "You murdered him," and when Perilla returns to New York and consults Fleming Stone, a famous detective, Stone learns there is a dangerous gossip in Richmond. Corey left a great part of his large fortune to Perilla. Stone is told how the night before the wedding Malcolm Fairfax, Perilla's brother, asked for aspirin and Tony Gaskell, the best man, produced some tablets, saying they were better. Corey as well as Malcolm took them. Bob Cole, a friend of Malcolm, admits to Stone that he is in love with Perilla but later gains Stone's consent to his working with Stone on the Malden case. Bob reports that Madame Malden's Richmond lawyer, also believes Perilla killed Corey, and that Richard Carleton, of Washington, one of the executors of Corey's will, is friendly with Farman. The other executors are Tony Gaskell, who is a successful Philadelphia lawyer, and Roger Garth, also a Philadelphia lawyer. Perilla's doctor orders a change and she starts on a motor trip. In her party is Hilda Sheldon, who was a friend of honor, and they stop overnight at Scottsboro, Ohio, at Rosecroft, the home of Hilda's sister, Mrs. "Ray" Field. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XXII

"You thought it, however. Do you deny that?"

"How can I tell what Mr. Farman thinks? He can think what he chooses."

"Of course. Now, what do you think?"

"I can see no reason for murder, no method that could have been employed and no means that could have been used."

"And yet you still believe murder was done?"

Carleton looked uncertain and a little embarrassed. "If I do," he said, "it's only because Corey Malden was such a healthy specimen, that I can't conceive of his dropping dead from heart failure or any other weakness."

"All right, then," and Stone nodded his head. "I rather agree with you, I think. But I don't want you to think it was the work of an innocent woman."

"What else is there to think?" and Carleton looked sulky. "If there was no one else there to kill him, why wasn't it his wife?"

"What is your business, Mr. Carleton?" Stone asked sternly.

"I'm a lawyer."

"Then you must know you haven't a case against the lady. Now, why do you want one? Why do you hope to find one?"

"I don't," Carleton blurted out, looking with a trace of fear at Tony Gaskell's lowering face.

"Now, gentlemen," said John Lovell, in his placating way, "all this will get us nowhere. To suspect my daughter of murder is too absurd. I am not afraid of such suspicions, but I am afraid that the man who could bring harm of other sorts to her. She is not unprotected, I'll have you know, and any dishonor cast upon her name will be duly dealt with."

"I am interested to know Mr. Carleton's or Mr. Farman's theories as to murder," Stone said, suavely.

"Whoever or whatever did Corey Malden, his wife had no hand in it," Gaskell declared.

"You say that," Carleton said, "because Corey was your friend. He was my friend, too, I admired his wife—he is beautiful and clever. But that does not preclude wickedness. She—"

"She is entirely above and beyond suspicion," Stone said, slowly. "But that is not what free her; she is free from any chance of having done evil because she couldn't have done it. How could she? What was her weapon? What became of it? Why would she kill a man she loved so dearly? Yes, we know of her love for him—you do not. We know her young, innocent, girlish character—you do not. And moreover, we know that this dastardly hint of suspicion, any more than a hint, is the work of a malevolent old woman, a jealous half-demented person, who hates without cause and accuses without reason. Incidentally, we know that you, Mr. Carleton, have joined issue with the unscrupulous Farman, and your game is to bring the disaster to the stricken bride of the murdered man, and obtain from your helpless client ill-gotten gains for yourselves."

Part of the knowledge set forth by Stone, in his quiet but forceful language, was obtained from facts and hints brought to him by Bob, and the rest he had cleverly and truly deduced from what he had learned.

Stone saw that many of his shafts struck home. Yet, he had learned nothing new. To be sure, Carleton's face exhibited an unwilling assent to all the facts the detective flung at the objectionable Madame Malden, but this got them nowhere.

"What's this about the elder Mrs. Malden taking candy into the room of her daughter-in-law?" he asked.

"I've heard nothing of any such doings," said Carleton, carelessly and untruthfully.

"Oh, I think you have. Be careful, Mr. Carleton; perjury is not a pretty trick. Surely, you heard of it."

"I mean, I heard nothing that made me pay any attention to it. Merely the vaguest of rumors."

"Rumors to what effect?"

"Look here, Mr. Stone, I am not here to be quizzed by you. I am not here as a witness; I am here as a co-executor of Corey Malden's will, and unless we get at that work and attend to it exclusively, I consider it unnecessary for me to stay here. I do not know why you are at this meeting, anyway. It is a meeting of the executors. Nor does Mr. Lovell belong here. But Mr. Garth should be here. It seems to me the gathering is irregular."

"It does seem so, doesn't it?" and Stone looked round the room. "Isn't it odd how often the wrong people get in the right places and vice versa?"

"I do not intend it shall happen again. When will Mr. Garth be home?"

"He's not coming till about Christmas time," Tony replied.

"So Mr. Carleton," Stone took up his quest again, "what were these rumors you were talking about?"

Carleton looked grave. "If we are to run this affair without Garth," he said, "we may as well go to it. Never mind rumors, let's get down to facts. I can tell you, gentlemen, that unless you take this step to prevent it, you will find the young and innocent Mrs. Malden in serious trouble—even danger."

"Danger of what?" asked Stone.

"Of arrest for the murder of her husband."

"Do you know what you're talking about?"

"Certainly do, Mr. Stone. And so do you. The arrest is pending. I may say it is imminent."

"Who will bring this charge?"

Stone was not frightened, but he was anxious.

"Madame Malden, of course. She has a case, without any doubt. But as I told you, Mr. Carleton, she will be here in a few days."

"Will Mrs. Malden, senior, come?"

Stone inquired.

"Sooner or later, if required. Not unless it is necessary."

"It will be necessary," and Stone's face wore a somber look. "I'm sorry you've taken this step, Mr. Carleton; you will deeply regret it. When will the affair come off? Shall we wire the motor party to come back at once?"

NEW YORK, May 10.—(P)—Bonds

imbedded the enthusiasm of soaring stocks today and advances of 1 to 5 or more points were recorded by numerous issues of all categories.

While secondary loans generally led the upward movement, many "sell edge" matrices trailed along for substantial gains. United States government securities were firm throughout. Various foreign obligations also participated in the brisk recovery.

The trading volume expanded proportionately with the resumption of the forward movement, sales totaling

$16,007,000, par value, compared with

$17,776,000 yesterday. The average for 80 domestic corporate loans was up eight-tenths of a point.

The market generally was spurred to greater effort by continued reports of business and industrial recovery

throughout the country.

The rails, utilities and industrials ran about even in the upward push.

Among the notable gainers were loans of American Telephone, Allegheny

Corporation, Dodge Bros., Goodrich,

Goodyear, International Paper, International Harvester, Norfolk & Western,

Post Telephone, Norfolk & Western,

Warner Bros., and Western Union.

Gains of 1 to around 5 points were registered by bonds of Japan, French issues also rallied 1 to around 3 points and German loans gained 1 to 4.

PROSECUTION ENDS MEANS TRIAL CASE

Plot To Get $35,000 for Lindbergh Baby's Ransom, Charged.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP)—The government completed its case today against Gaston B. Means and Norman T. Whitaker, alias "The Fox," on trial for conspiracy to swindle Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, who sought to ransom the Lindbergh baby, but the prosecution failed to get before the jury an alleged confession by Whitaker.

It left upon attorneys for the two, however, the task of securing them from a closely woven net of evidence most of which already had been used against Means to secure his conviction and 15-year sentence for taking $104,000 from the society woman in the unscrupulous hoax.

Today it put witness after witness on the stand in District of Columbia supreme court, bent upon establishing that after the money was obtained the two connived to get an additional $35,000 ostensibly to redeem the baby's kidnappers or others by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

But reverse met the government when it questioned John M. Keith, department of justice agent, who was on Whitaker's arrest. He said Whitaker had admitted being with Means in conference with Mrs. McLean at El Paso, Tex., and then a vigorous objection by the defense, based on the claim that the confession was not voluntarily, silenced him.

Ella Oppenheimer Hits Malnutrition Situation

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP)—Dr. Ella Oppenheimer, of the children's bureau, examining extensive data on child health that daily crosses her desk, said today: "The cumulative results of the years of hardship are becoming increasingly evident."

Granting that mortality rates continue low, that communicable diseases are under control, that relief agencies have put up a brave fight against malnutrition, Dr. Oppenheimer nevertheless warned that the situation is grave.

"Physicians in charge of children's hospitals and clinics say that they see many children, who come to them for other reasons than hunger, but whom they find to be actually hungry," she said.
